

Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh

EXAMINATION FOR MEMBERSHIP

October 1955

DISEASES OF THE BLOOD

Time allowed—THREE HOURS

(Answer ALL questions)

1. Discuss the value of the differential leucocyte count as a diagnostic procedure.
2. Give an account of the neurological manifestations that may complicate disorders of the haemopoietic system.
3. Describe the investigation and treatment of a patient aged 25 years with a suspected haemolytic crisis.
4. Give an account of the clinical and laboratory features of infectious mononucleosis.